"The Land of Sunshine and Flowers" And The "City Beautiful"

A trip to Southern Florida and back in five days, including a 24-hours' stay in Atlanta, is going some, but that is what this exceptionally poor traveler did last week. It was our intention to remain longer in the "Land of Sunshine and Flowers," but a combination of circumstances prohibited the carrying out of our purpose as we had mapped out. "Man proposes and God disposes," you know. Anyway, we had a satisfactory and altogether pleasant trip. Our objective point was Orlando, a delightful little city of some 8,000 inhabitants, about 150 miles south of Jacksonville, which latter city is, as our readers know, the gateway to Florida.

Orlando, which we presume got its name from the character in the Shakespearean play, "As You Like It," is in the South-Central portion of Florida, and is one of the busiest, cleanest, prettiest and best little cities in that State, noted for its beautiful towns. It is probably 35 miles from the Atlantic and 75 from the Gulf, and the ocean breezes make the climate well-nigh perfect the year 'round. The winters are delightful beyond the power of this pen to tell, while the summers are not so severely hot as they are in Central Kentucky. Tourists of the North cheerfully testify to Orlando's splendid climate, for, in winter, or in what they term the tourist season, 4,000 to 6,000 gather there in order that they may escape the cold blasts that they are sure to encounter almost anywhere else.

Besides being a tourist town, Orlando is a manufacturing center of no mean pretensions and is the seat of Orange county, the banner citrus growing county of the State. Some 8,000,000 or more boxes of oranges, grape fruit, tangerines and the like were shipped out of Florida last season and of this number Orange county growers shipped over a million. The crop this year is most promising, and as California's crop was killed last winter, prospects for the Florida grove owners are most flattering. They will have a big crop and prices will be high.

Citrus fruit from Orange county commands the best prices on the market, because of its superior quality. There is something in the soil that makes the oranges grown there sweeter and better flavored than can be found in any other county.

Truck gardening is another big industry in which Orange county leads. Many thousands of cars of fresh vegetables are shipped North during the winter and from this source much revenue is derived.

We mentioned above that Orlando was a manufacturing center. There is there an iron foundry, employing many skilled workmen; a boiler factory, with a big pay roll; a patent medicine concern, which gives employment to a large force; a cigar factory, which turns out daily many hundreds of boxes of clear Havanas, several planing mills and one enterprise known as the Novelty Works, where a great deal of fancy wood work is turned out.

In order that the tourists and others

sometimes reduces her strength to the depths of weakness—her devotion to household cares prevents sufficient rest and recreation. Thousands of women in this condition find Scott's Emulsion exactly what they need; it is predigested body-food so medically perfected that every drop yields direct returns in strengthening the organs and tissues and in making healthy, life-sustaining blood. Scott's Emulsion is devoid of alcohol or any harmful drugs, and overcomes tiredness and nervousness in a marvelous way.

who come as guests to the "City Beautiful," which Orlando has justly been dubbed, enterprising citizens have built and are operating hotels, boarding and rooming houses to the number of fifty or sixty, some of the former ranking with the best in the country. The San Juan, an immense, six-story, brick structure, covering more ground than the courthouse square in Richmond, can take care of 500 guests and does its handsome ly. The Wyoming, The Lucerne, The St. Charles and the The Tremont are others quite as well equipped, but are not so commodious. No one leaves Orlando for the reason that he cannot be cared for. Were the hustling citizens told of even the probability of such a thing occurring, the erection of additional hotels would follow post haste. And the beauty of it is, you can get any kind of accommodations you want. If your jeans are too well filled with filthy lucre, Mine Host Harry Beeman, of the San Juan, could divorce you from some of your surplus by giving you a suite at say $15 to $25 per day. On the contrary, if you want reasonable board you can get it at $8 to $15 per week. There are prices and accommodations within the reach of all. Try and see for yourself.

Orlando is a peculiar place in that there are 15 fresh water lakes in her corporate limits. Some of these are very beautiful, Lake Lucerne being something like the lake in Switzerland bearing the same name. Then there are Lake Eola, Lake Minnie, Lake Conard, Lake Ivanhoe, Lake Highland, from which the city gets her supply of water, and others, all pretty and clear and teeming with fish of many varieties. There are 1,100 clear water lakes in the county. Lake Apopka, 24 miles long, lies partly in Orange.

Orlando is the best paved and bricked city in Florida and probably in the United States. The pavements, which are almost perfect, are built of hexagonal blocks, artistically laid, while the streets are paved with vitrified brick that cost four cents apiece and were considered bought at a bargain at that. They are swept twice daily and the place from center to circumference reminds one of "Spotless Town," so scrupulously clean it is.

During the less than twenty months that have elapsed since we left Orlando, where it was our pleasure to live for two years, there has been marked improvement. Business houses and homes have arisen mushroom-like and there is evidence of prosperity on every hand. Over 500 creditable buildings have been erected and the population has increased from 5,000 to nearly 8,000. Its citizenship is cosmopolitan and a magnificent one it is. There are no factions politically or socially and all alike join in the effort to make Orlando bigger and better, as well as make it pleasant and appealing for all who enter the city's domain. We never saw a warmer-hearted, better people, nor one more responsive to all things that portend to general good.

An idea of how property is advancing there is shown in this: In December, 1911, twenty months ago, we wrote for the Reporter-Star, with which we were then associated, a brief notice of sale of a vacant lot, 90x150 feet, in the heart of the city, for $19,000. Many thought the price was ridiculously high, while the wisecracks said it was a mistake of the paper. Less than three months ago that same piece of ground changed hands at $80,000. And this is only one of the many instances where Orlando dirt has increased to double its value in two years. Upon the lot above referred to there is being erected a four-story business house, to be used as a department store, and which will cost about

The little city by a considerable majority adopted the commission form of government the day we were there. It remains to be seen whether the legal voters of the "City Beautiful" acted wisely in casting their ballots. The question is one to which we have given little or no thought, but are confident it is a debatable one.

Orlando, which is not much larger than Richmond, has two thriving daily papers and three weeklies. The Reporter-Star, which is the oldest daily in South Florida, is edited by Mr. George C. Keller, formerly of Harrodsburg, but more recently of the Interior Journal, Staunton. He was an understudy of Col. W. P. Walton, who spent a portion of last week in Richmond. We are glad to say that Mr. Keller is "making good" in all that the slang phrase implies. His paper is a strong one, a booster for Florida and its influence for good is felt far beyond the confines of the county in which it is published.

We have been asked if it were not very warm in Florida at this season. It is not. On the contrary, it is far more pleasant in Orlando in summer than it is in this part of Kentucky. The mercury goes just as high there, but then there is almost always a delightful sea breeze, which not only makes life bearable, but very much worth living. Then too it rains nearly every day in the hottest season, and this is a great help from the standpoint of comfort.

A great State is Florida already, but we believe the day is coming when she will rank with the best in the bunch. The largest in point of territory east of the Mississippi river and with fewer people than live in the city of St. Louis, she has not yet attained her growth in population or industry, but the day is coming, and by leaps and bounds, when the Peninsular State will be hailed as "the first, the last, the best; the land of prosperity and plenty." So mote it be!

Tilford Jones Hurt in Game.

Tilford Jones, who is now outfielder for the Columbus team and who used to manage the Richmond Blue-grass leaguers, suffered a severe accident in a game between Milwaukee and Columbus which will keep him out of the game for some time. Jones is one of Columbus' heavy-hitters and his absence will be very much felt.

He sustained a fractured right jaw when he and Shelton collided at full speed while going after Berg's short fly in the third inning. Both men were badly hurt and were at once removed to a hospital.

AUGUST 12, 1913

EVERY one who looks out for the interests of his Democratic constituents, Congressman Harvey Helm will call upon the members of the Civil Service Commission to ask for a change in the personnel of the examining boards in this district. Mr. Helm has information that the boards are discriminating against Democrats in the examinations for post-offices and internal revenue places, and that the Republicans are being favored beyond their deserts. Mr. Helm believes that Democrats should have the jobs now that their party is in power and his action will be commended by all who believe that Democrats are at least as fit for office as the Republicans, who have so long fed at the public trough.

An unmarried woman of Chicago, thirty years of age, mauled a married woman over the head with a chair when she called her an old maid. Hauled before court she was discharged by a judge who said, "I think this sort of provocation justifies any assault up to murder." Foolish woman and foolish judge! There is no oppression in the term "old maid." The unmarried woman is active in nearly all lines of achievement and unless scolded by the use of the term, is generally a sweet tempered, useful citizen, who does much to improve conditions morally and socially. Besides, to be an old maid is greatly to be preferred than to be the wives of many men we know.

FIFTY years ago Jacob Demick married the girl of his choice at Philadelphia. They lived together for forty-five years, when he secured a divorce, because of her continual nagging. A nagging woman is the worst of God's creation, but Jacob has found that even her nagging tones are sweet music to his ears compared with the loud howling of a dog without hearing them. He sought her again and they have just been re-married, and as the novelists say, let us hope that they will ever afterwards live happily.

SECRETARY BRYAN is cancelling his Chattanooga dates because of pressing business, as he alleges. We suspect, however, that the adverse criticism of his taking the time he owes the government for private profit had something to do with it.

$4 Corn; 80 Cents Meal.

The Paris Fair.

John F. Wiggins, Secretary of the Paris Fair, has our thanks for a "comp" to the exhibition which will be held beginning next Tuesday, 19th. ## Made His Clock Run.

Prof. J. R. Johnson, of the faculty of Eastern Normal, tells us that the electric storm of Thursday night saved him a bill at his watchmaker's. His clock, one of the old pendulum kind, had not run for months and he had intended taking it to the repair shop the following day. Friday morning he noticed the time-piece running and it has been doing service since. Not only is it running, but it is keeping the time. This sounds a little fishy, but those who know Prof. Johnson doubt it not, but on the contrary, vouch for its truthfulness.

Colored Fair Begins Thursday

The colored people of Richmond and Madison county are looking forward in joyful anticipation to the Madison County Colored Fair, which begins Thursday afternoon over tomorrow. Every preparation for a successful exhibition has been made and there is promise of much stock from this and other counties. J. L. Hathaway, who is the secretary of the association, told us yesterday that everything was in readiness for the biggest colored fair ever pulled off in Richmond. "People will be here world without end, and we will have the best class of stock that has been shown in this section in years. Everybody is united in the effort to make the fair a success and we feel that we will have an exhibition that we will all have reason to be proud of," he said. The best of order is promised. Many white people will attend the fair daily, knowing that the best of treatment will be accorded them, and wanting to help the laudable enterprise with their presence and their means.

Mr. Joe Gardner, of Jacksonville, Fla., was a caller at the Climax office Monday on his way to Irvine to join his wife, who has been in Kentucky several weeks. Mr. Gardner and his wife are both natives of Irvine, she being Miss Myrtle, daughter of the late banker, W. T. B. Williams. They adopted Jacksonville as their home about twelve years ago. Mr. Gardner holds a responsible position in one of the leading banks of his adopted city and bears every evidence of prosperity.

In a wreck of train No. 32, near Hazel Patch yesterday afternoon, the engineer was badly scalded.

W. F. Coulter and his son, Harry, both leading lawyers of Dyer, Tennessee, were shot to death at Trenton by J. A. Alford, a wealthy furniture dealer. Family troubles led him to commit the deed.

They Trimmed Him Up.
At Perryville last Saturday a fellow went up to the polls to vote who hadn't shaved for several weeks and with his hair nearly to his shoulders. Several men in the crowd, it is said, told him that this was to be a clean election and seized him and carried him across the street to a barber shop, gave him a nice shave and a hair cut then turned him loose to vote.—Harrodsburg Herald.

Come to Owen McKee, Richmond

Lightning Gave Close Call.
Lightning struck the home of Bud Hill, who lives on Clay's Lane, Thursday night, knocking a hole in the building, demolishing the porch and damaging the house generally. His daughter, who was asleep, was hidden under the debris, but fortunately she nor any other occupant of the house was hurt in the least.

Tried to Sell Stamps at Reduced Price.

While attempting to sell a large number of two-cent postage stamps at the reduced price of one cent each, Jim Ponder, of Berea, and William Mullins, of Estill county, both white, were arrested at Winchester and are being held on suspicion. Several days ago a rifled mail sack was found in an empty Lexington & Eastern mail car and when the prisoners offered so many stamps for sale at reduced prices suspicion was immediately aroused and their arrest followed. The postal authorities have been notified and an investigation will be made.

Death of Dr. Giles Harris.
Died at his home on West Main street in this city, August 11th, at 1:40 p. m. Dr. Giles Harris, in the 69th year of his age. He has been ill for several years with a complicated stomach trouble and several times within the past eighteen months his life was despaired of, but each time he rallied, owing to his naturally strong constitution and his enduring will power not to give up but finally, he had to yield to the grim reaper—to the common fate of all. Funeral services were held this morning at his late residence conducted by Elder C. K. Marshall, thence his burial in Richmond Cemetery. He leaves a wife who was Mrs. Belle Rayburn, of this city, and one brother, Dr. James A. Harris, a physician of Mt. Vernon, Missouri.

Mrs. Susan Tudor Dead.
Mrs. Susan Tudor, aged 79, relict of V. K. Tudor, died at her home near East Hickman, Jessamine county, Sunday morning and the remains were conveyed here and interred in the Richmond Cemetery at 1 o'clock Monday afternoon, after prayer at the grave by Rev. E. H. Barnes. Paralysis brought about her demise. She was a sister of Mr. Lem Hill, once clerk of the Madison county court. Mrs. Tudor was a Godly mother and an excellent woman, and her many friends in this and Jessamine county sorrow at her taking away. She leaves the following children: Silas, Humphrey and W. K. Tudor, of this county; V. K. and Lemuel Tudor, of Jessamine; Leonard Tudor, of Stockton, Kansas; Charles Tudor and Mrs. W. D. Hudson, of Piqua, Texas.

Seed Rye.
We have an excellent supply of new Seed Rye, and are in position to fill all orders promptly at the lowest price. R. H. McKINNEY, 2nd and Irvine.

Judge Shackelford's Triumph.
Judge W. R. Shackelford and his friends, whose name seems to be legion, certainly have cause for pride over the handsome endorsement given him for County Judge of this county, and when it is considered that he was opposed by so worthy and popular a man as Judge Henry C. Rice, his nomination by nearly one thousand votes, his victory is hardly short of wonderful. It is said that Republicans are ungrateful, but the charge cannot be laid to the Democrats of this good county, who so gratefully exhibited their appreciation of a splendid official, who has devoted his time and talents to the people's service and managed the finances of the county in such an excellent manner. The honor of a renomination was most worthily bestowed. Judge Shackelford has proven his capacity and fitness and it is well that he has been given a further lease of power for good.
